

Credit Suisse, principal sponsor, comments on the launch of second annual World Energy Summit

22 October 2008

As principal sponsor, Bassam Yammine, Co-CEO of Credit Suisse Middle East and Head of Investment Banking and Asset Management for Credit Suisse in the Middle East said: 'This unique event is very important for the Middle East and its future growth.'

'Credit Suisse looks forward to continuing its partnership with the Summit, which underscores the Bank's strong commitment both to the region, and to the advancement of sustainable energy overall.' he added.

Bruno Daher, Co-CEO of Credit Suisse in the Middle East and Head of Private Banking for Credit Suisse in the Middle East/ Indian Sub-Continent added:

'As a global bank, Credit Suisse recognizes the importance of sustainable energy and has long been active in developing innovative solutions in this sector. We are therefore very pleased to sponsor the World Future Energy Summit and work together with other institutions to help overcome the challenges we all face with regards to renewable energy.'

{AME Info}