A new air-cleaning and filtration systems company, GulfMate Solutions, was announced yesterday as a partnership between the Dubai-based diversified business group Kellett & Singleton and Euromate, a Dutch-based clean air solution provider company.

The company will provide innovative air-cleaning and filtration systems in the UAE, other GCC countries and the Middle East market.

Announcing the launch of the new company, senior officials of GulfMate Solutions said Euromate has been providing clean air solutions for the past 25 years and is widely accepted by the European community with accreditation from EU authorities.

"The new venture marks the entry of Euromate into the Middle East market and together we are confident to expand the market through our unique air cleaning solutions. We see tremendous potential for growth in the region, particularly in the UAE as well as other GCC countries," said Parvez Merchant, Director GulfMate Solutions.

The company's portfolio of products from Euromate will include air-cleaning solutions that can be installed both indoor as well as at outdoor locations. GulfMate Solutions has also collaborated with Armada Out-door, a creative solution provider company from Netherlands, to produce an out-door smoking solution. This project has been developed keeping in mind the local weather conditions.
